FAIRLEIGH DICKINSON UNIVERSITY PROJECT PROFILE

FOUNDED IN 1942, FAIRLEIGH DICKINSON UNIVERSITY IS NEW JERSEY'S LARGEST PRIVATE UNIVERSITY, SERVING NEARLY 12,000 GRADUATE AND UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS, INCLUDING MORE THAN 1,000 INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS FROM AROUND THE WORLD.

The University's two U.S. campuses are in northern New Jersey. In addition, they also own and operate a campus in Wroxton, England. In 2007, they opened up their newest campus in Vancouver, B.C., and just this past year the school approached Fusion Projects and our Design Partner DIALOG, to build and design a "State of the Art Facility" for their growing student body. With many years of experience working with heritage buildings, Fusion took on the project with enthusiasm. DIALOG's design for the new space, located in a turn of the century building, integrates a new modern streamlined design with exposed beams, brick walls and specialty lighting to highlight project specific areas.

The campus was a unique heritage warehouse conversion. It was transformed from a software development office space to a private post-secondary institutional facility and required the upmost respect as a part of Vancouver's architectural history. The build is 15,000 sq. feet, housing an admission and student lounge area, library, 7 classrooms, staff offices, and a staff lounge. Fusion offered a number of services to transition this space including Construction Management, IT Solutions and Project Management. Fusion is happy to say that the enrolled students and faculty members are delighted with their new space. Who says learning can't be done in a beautiful space.
